Open across the inner-south (lives in Zetland, likes it), eastern suburbs, lower north shore and the inner-west as far as Marrickville – not the outer/greater west.

This is a selective-buyer market, not a chase-anything market. The RBA cash rate is 4.35% after the 5 May hike, the next decision is due 16 June, and April CPI is still 4.2% year-on-year versus the 2-3% target band. Domain's latest Sydney read is mixed: houses have stalled under rate pressure, but units are still holding up because affordability is pushing buyers down the price ladder.

DOMAIN 2026 FORECAST COVERAGE · 2026-01-05

The clean read is that borrowing capacity is capped, vendor confidence is thinner, and Sydney buyers are more price-sensitive. That helps Ben if he stays disciplined below $1.1M, but it does not make every apartment cheap. Domain's March-quarter report had Sydney houses edging down 0.04% while Sydney units rose 0.6% to a record $848,227 and 3.5% over the year. Domain's 2026 forecast still expects national unit prices to rise about 5%, but its own economists now flag a two-half year with rate-hike risk taking heat out of the second half. Translation: inspect the best assets, negotiate hard, and do not stretch for generic high-density stock just because the guide looks neat.

THE FORCES AT WORK

CASH RATE

4.35% - RESTRICTIVE

The RBA increased the cash rate by 25bp on 5 May to 4.35%, with the next decision due at 2.30pm AEST on 16 June. The May statement says inflation risks remain tilted to the upside, so the bias is restrictive, not easing.

INFLATION

ABS April CPI eased from March's 4.6% to 4.2% year-on-year, but it is still above the RBA's 2-3% target band. Housing inflation was 6.3% y/y, so apartment holding costs remain a real part of the decision.

CPI 4.2% Y/Y

SYDNEY VALUES

UNITS +0.6% Q/Q

Domain's March-quarter report showed Sydney houses stalling, but units rose 0.6% for the quarter and 3.5% annually. Affordable units are more resilient than expensive houses, but buyers are more selective.

UNITS VS
HOUSES

BUDGET END
SUPPORTED

Domain's 2026 forecast expects unit prices to rise about 5% nationally and notes affordability is pushing demand toward units. That supports Ben's sub-$1.1M brief, provided the building quality is not generic oversupply.

THE TRAJECTORY Base case for the next fortnight: do not chase. Use the 16 June RBA decision as the next macro checkpoint, lead with the fully-enriched Zetland candidates, and treat card-only listings as inspection comparables until Domain detail pages can be refreshed. The run found no fresh parsed search results today because Domain served access-denied pages; the folio is therefore a curated market-memory folio, not a clean all-fresh scrape.

THE VERDICT

The standout. A single-level two-bedder, two bathrooms, secure parking and a sub-1km walk to Green Square — and a guide that's built to actually transact in a softening market.

Why it fits the brief

This is as on-brief as the run produced. A single-level two-bedroom apartment in Victoria Park's 'Elite' release, inside the Green Square renewal precinct, under 5km from the CBD and a short flat walk to Green Square station. It clears the hard criteria cleanly: two beds, two baths, a secure car space, air-conditioning installed, and lift access – no compromises on the deal-breakers.

The growth story is the precinct itself: East Village retail, Joynton Park and the Gunyama aquatic centre are delivered, not promised, so the infrastructure premium is already in the ground rather than a bet. In-complex pool and gym give it a real rentability edge if it ever flips to an investment. At a guide that starts at $950k in a market where Sydney units have just softened, the buyer has leverage on the upper end.

- ✓ Two bathrooms incl. main ensuite – rare at this price band
- ✓ Secure basement car space – clears the parking deal-breaker
- ✓ Under 1km flat walk to Green Square station
- ✓ Air-conditioning installed (a hard must-have, satisfied)
- ✓ Indoor pool + gym in-complex – rentability edge
- ✓ Opposite Joynton Park – good for Gulby

ONE WATCH-OUT

Guide tops out at $1.045M – at the upper end it eats most of the $1.1M budget, leaving little for stamp duty and strata. The strata levy on a pool/gym building will be material; get the S184 and the last two AGM minutes before offering.

WHY THIS MIGHT BE WRONG

- Comparable evidence is thin, so the price call can move quickly.
- Critical due-diligence items still need human verification.

From the listing

Perfectly located, the residence sits moments from East Village Shopping Centre, popular cafés and dining, with Green Square Station just a short walk away.

What's important to you - Light-filled interiors with fresh finishes and sleek flooring throughout - Seamless single-level layout flowing onto a covered entertainer's balcony - Two bedrooms with built-ins, main featuring ensuite - Contemporary stone kitchen with gas cooking and quality appliances - Stylish main bathroom plus a separate internal laundry for added convenience - Air-conditioning, intercom access, lift entry and secure car space - Well-maintained complex offering an indoor pool and fully equipped gym

THE VERDICT

On-brief eastern-suburbs two-bedder at a tight guide, but the listing is thin — inspect before you fall for the postcode.

Why it fits the brief

A two-bedroom apartment in Randwick at a $975k–$985k guide sits comfortably inside budget and inside the eastern-suburbs zone Ben likes, well within the 20-minute CBD-drive ring. Two beds, one bath, one car covers the core criteria.

The honest caveat: this run only captured the search-card data — no full description, no confirmed aircon, no strata figure.

Aircon is a hard must-have, so its presence is the first thing to verify at the Saturday inspection. Treat the fit score as provisional until the detail page is read.

- ✓ Eastern-suburbs (Randwick) — inside Ben's preferred zone
- ✓ Tight $975k–$985k guide, comfortably under budget
- ✓ Two beds + secure parking on the card
- ✓ Within the 20-min CBD-drive ring

ONE WATCH-OUT

Detail page wasn't enriched this run – aircon (a hard must-have), strata cost and outlook are all unconfirmed. Don't rank it above the Zetland lead until you've walked it.

WHY THIS MIGHT BE WRONG

- Critical due-diligence items still need human verification.

THE VERDICT

A one-bedder on the Pacific Highway — lower-north-shore location is right, but it's a one-bed on a main road. Walk it before you warm to it.

Why it fits the brief

A one-bedroom apartment in Crows Nest at $919k is inside budget and squarely in the lower-north-shore pocket Ben is open to, with the Metro now running. One bed, one bath, one car.

Two flags keep it provisional: a Pacific Highway address raises a main-road noise/outlook risk that needs an in-person check, and a one-bedder is the weaker capital-growth and resale profile of the shortlist. Card-only data this run, so aircon and strata are unconfirmed.

- ✓ Crows Nest — lower north shore, on the Metro
- ✓ $919k, inside budget
- ✓ Secure car space on the card

ONE WATCH-OUT

Pacific Highway = main-road noise/outlook risk; verify in person. One-bed is the weakest growth/resale profile of the four. Aircon + strata unconfirmed (card-only).

THE VERDICT

The value play — a two-bed in Marrickville at a $775k guide. Cheapest entry on the list, but it's the western edge of the brief and the listing is bare.

Why it fits the brief

A two-bedroom apartment in Marrickville guiding $775k is the cheapest entry of the shortlist by a wide margin, leaving real headroom under the $1.1M budget. Marrickville is the agreed inner-west boundary of the brief — on-brief, but at its western edge. Two beds, one bath, one car.

Card-only data this run: no description, no confirmed aircon, no strata. The low guide is attractive but begs the question of why — read the detail and inspect before reading too much into the number.

- ✓ Two beds at a $775k guide — most headroom under budget
- ✓ Marrickville — inner-west, on the brief's boundary
- ✓ Secure parking on the card

ONE WATCH-OUT

Western edge of the brief. A guide this low under-prices the band – confirm there's no underquote or stock issue. Aircon + strata unconfirmed (card-only).
